By United Press

The powerful CIO marshalled its membership today to combat President Truman's program for ending the rash of reconversion labor disputes which has idled 565,000 U. S. workers.

In the first outright split with the administration since 1932, CIO President Philip Murray last night charged that the proposal had but one single purpose—"to weaken and ultimately destroy labor union organizations."

The CIO leader denounced the federal government for yielding in "abject cowardice" to industrial "arrogance" and served notice that his union would rise to defeat the measure with every means at its command.

Despite violent opposition from every major union, the house labor committee went ahead with plans to approve the program, calling for the appointment of a finding bodies to deal with labor disputes threatening the national economy.

Acting Chairman Robert Ramo, D., Ga., said the committee was prepared to give Mr. Truman "exactly what he asked for" and said a bill would be ready for introduction today or tomorrow.

Congressmen, on the whole, appeared to feel that some type of legislation was needed in a hurry, in view of the recent labor-management conferences' failure to agree on a voluntary program.

Meanwhile, rank-and-file representatives of two major CIO unions prepared to meet the official consideration of the President's proposal.

To Meet Saturday

In Detroit, some 200 delegates were scheduled to meet Saturday to take action on the chief executive's back-to-work appeal in the coast-to-coast General Motors (Continued on Page Two)

IRANIAN TROOPS STAND READY TO QUASH REBELS

TEHRAN, Dec. 5—The Iranian government has made a third request to Soviet Russia for permission to send reinforcements into rebellious Azerbaijan province, it was disclosed today.

Two earlier requests were refused in Soviet notes handed the Iranian government Nov. 26 and Dec. 2.

Iranian troops are waiting at Sharifabad for permission to proceed and the Iranian foreign ministry was hopeful that Russia would alter its earlier stand.

Rance Wolf Saves Son, Hit By Car

Police Hunting For Hit-Run Driver Whose Auto Hit South End Man

Rance Wolf, 37, 379 Weldon avenue, thought of his son's safety before his own and succeeded in throwing him to safety, but was hit and severely injured by a hit-run driver on South Washington street at 6 p. m. Tuesday Circleville police reported.

Mr. Wolfe jumped up to avoid being run over when the vehicle sped towards him, but was severely and painfully injured when hit by the car and dragged 15 to 25 feet, Officer Alva Shasteen stated.

Mr. Wolfe and his son were hauling coal to their home in a cart, going south, when a car, also going south approached. The car struck Mr. Wolfe before he could get out of the way.

Police were searching Wednesday for the hit-and-run driver who was seen by an eye-witness leaving the scene of the accident. Coal that was being carried in the cart was spread over the street for 25 to 50 feet.

Frank Keaton, driver of a Try-Me taxi cab, was going north and saw the car, which was going south hit Mr. Wolfe. Mr. Keaton said that he tried to get the license number but the car was going too fast.

A headlight on the right side of the car was broken and glass scattered on the street.

Mr. Wolfe received back, hip and left leg injuries, and his right wrist was cut and left foot swollen, police said. His left foot was caught on the car and the shoe was torn off.

ADVANCE UNITS OF 37TH BACK

1,400 Officers And Men Of Famed Buckeye Division Land In California

SAN PEDRO, Calif., Dec. 5—Advance units of the 37th Infantry division scattered to separation centers today, only a handful of them "old timers" of the Ohio National Guard outfit that spent 42 months overseas and killed nearly 34,000 Japanese.

Fourteen hundred officers and men of the 37th, storied in "The Ballad of Roger Young," were aboard the S. S. Yvetreden when it docked yesterday, but only 130 were from Ohio, original home of the outfit.

When the 37th was activated into federal service, on Oct. 15, 1940, there were 9,000 men under Maj. Gen. Robert S. Beightler, Columbus. O. Beightler will arrive in San Francisco Dec. 12 with other units of the division.

PRO-RED PAPERS PLANT WRECKED BY TURKISH MOB

ISTANBUL, Dec. 5—A crowd of 27,000 waving Turkish flags and shouting "down with the Communists" today destroyed the plant of the pro-Russian newspapers Tan and La Turkiye.

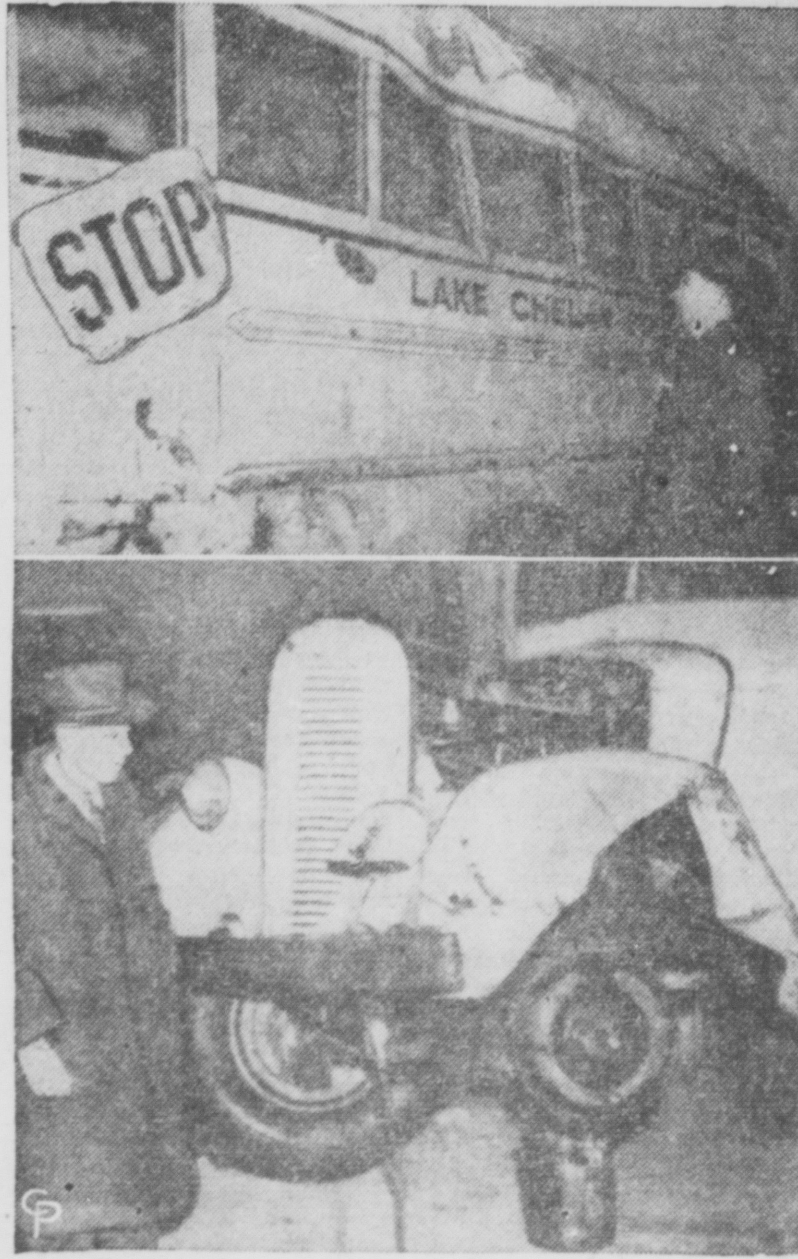

The mob including 7,000 university students smashed the plant of Tan, then marched to the modern part of the city and destroyed a Russian bookstore.

They swung past the United States embassy shouting "long live free America." Next they tried to reach the Soviet embassy, but were blocked by police and automobiles.

Still bent upon destruction, the mob surged around behind the Soviet embassy and wrecked the installations of La Turkiye.

All stores were closed during the demonstration. No casualties were reported.

DEATH BUS RETRIEVED FROM LAKE

CHELSEA COUNTY Sheriff Bruce Parkinson, lower photo, examines broken glass and holes punched in the body of the Chelsea school bus as it rolled down a steep underwater cliff after plunging 60 feet into the lake a week ago. The bus was recovered after five bodies had been taken from the sunken vehicle by divers. Washington state and county officials immediately began the task of inspecting the bus to see if any mechanical failure could be blamed for the tragedy which took the lives of 15 children and the bus driver. ### Farm Price Guarantees To Be Reduced On Most Crops By Government

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5—The government in 1946 will reduce virtually all farm price guarantees to the lowest level allowed by law, it was disclosed today.

This policy of lowered farm support prices in the first postwar farming year was stated by H. B. Boyd, the agriculture department's director of price, at a 1946 farm outlook conference.

The government underwrote prices of more than two-thirds of all farm products at 90 percent of parity as a wartime measure to encourage high production. The promise holds good for two years after the end of the war.

However, on commodities most needed in the war effort, support levels were pegged somewhat higher than at minimum levels. This was true of the oil crops, potatoes, milk, sugar, hogs and others.

"In 1946," Boyd said, "we anticipate there will be few cases where it will be necessary to keep these supports above the minimums." As exceptions, he named sugar beets, sugar cane and flaxseed.

The department supports prices by making loans on crops, purchases and diversion programs. Except in a few cases of temporary surpluses, it was unnecessary to use support measures during the war.

However, the American public is not expected to buy all that farmers can produce of some of the commodities bracketed in the support program. For these, the government will seek a declining production. One way it thinks this (Continued on Page Two)

WALLACE WARNS DANGER COMING

Commerce Secretary Sees Prosperity But Fears Business Deflation

NEW YORK, Dec. 5—Secretary of Commerce Henry A. Wallace told the National Association of Manufacturers today that business could expect "a few years of unprecedented peacetime prosperity," but warned that the "danger of deflation" threatened the long range picture.

Wallace spoke before the golden anniversary congress of American industry, opening the program of a three-day survey of production by leaders of industry, labor, the government, and science.

"Both inflationary and deflationary forces are at work in our economy," Wallace said. "The deflationary forces threaten to last a good deal longer."

Wallace said President Truman's program represented the simplest way to deal with the problem—to hold the line on prices to prevent inflation and to maintain the volume of purchasing power to prevent deflation.

"The long run solution to our problem lies in the direction of seeking profits through mass production and mass consumption," Wallace said.

Wallace warned that this principle had to be worked out successfully. He said it was doubtful if the economic organization would survive a depression such as that in the 1930's.

He urged both capital and labor (Continued on Page Two)

LESTER REID WINS SUIT FOR PAY WHILE IN ARMY

Lester S. Reid, Pickaway county native and former prosecuting attorney of Ross county, will be paid the prosecutor's salary for the time that he was in the Army and his term was still in effect.

While Mr. Reid was in the Army, William J. Jones was paid a monthly salary of $235 to replace Mr. Reid. Thus the county will pay double for the service of a prosecutor during the period from April 15, 1943, to December 31, 1944, the time during which Mr. Reid was in the Army, according to court ruling.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5 — The congressional Pearl Harbor investigation was gavelled to order at 10:01 a. m. today.

Lt. Gen. Leonard T. Gerow, chief of the war plans division at the time of the Pearl Harbor attack, was called to the stand. His testimony was expected to lay more groundwork for questioning of Gen. George C. Marshall, former Army chief of staff, tomorrow.

Committee Counsel William D. Mitchell announced that Marshall's early appearance required the committee to go into the story of the handling of certain intercepted Japanese messages earlier than had been planned.

Mitchell said the first item was the "winds" code and the "east wind rain" message that signified the end of diplomatic relations.

Nazi War Criminal Told Mussolini Britain Not Ready For War

NUERNBERG, Dec. 5 — Hermann Goering fatally underestimated British air strength in the Spring of 1939, calculating that the Royal Air Force would not be a potent factor until 1942, evidence placed before the war crimes tribunal revealed today.

Goering's underestimate of the British air potential which led directly to the Luftwaffe's failure to knock out the RAF in the battle of Britain was given to Benito Mussolini and Count Galeazzo Ciano April 19, 1939.

Goering said that "all in all the situation of the Axis is very strong and it could defeat all possible opponents in a general conflict."

Britain, he said, "most likely (Continued on Page Two)"

DR. E. S. SHANE WILL RESUME PRACTICE SOON

Dr. E. S. Shane, an officer in the United States Navy since December of 1942, is home on terminal leave and soon will resume the practice of medicine in Circleville.

Dr. Shane, who was a naval commander, was senior medical officer on an Auxiliary Personnel Attack ship and was divisional medical officer for the 39th Transport division.

APA ships carry men to invasion points, receive wounded men and transport them to base hospitals. Commander Shane's ship was one of the very first in at Saipan, Guam, Leyte, Lingayen, Subic Bay and Okinawa. He had a "front row seat" as he describes it, for many of the most terrible battles of the Pacific.

Commander Shane practiced both medicine and surgery on American battle victims. His admiration for the generation that crushed the Nazis and Japs is boundless.

Dr. Shane's terminal leave expires January 10 when he will once more become a civilian. He is anticipating the experience with definite pleasure. During his absence in the service Dr. Shane maintained his home in Circleville, Mrs. Shane being in residence.

Congress, Administration Giving More Attention To U.S. Housing Shortage

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5—Temporary measures were being pushed today to relieve the critical nationwide housing shortage until private building gets into full swing.

Sen. James M. Mead, D., N. Y., plans to seek authorization of $160,000,000 for the National Housing Agency to move temporary war housing to those communities where needs are most acute.

Aggravated by the demobilization of veterans and post-war shifts in population, the housing situation was getting increased attention both in congress and from the administration.

DOCTORS OPPOSE HEALTH PLAN

AMA On Record Disapproving President Truman's National Program

CHICAGO, Dec. 5—The American Medical Association's policy-making house of delegates was on record today with official disapproval of President Truman's proposed national health program.

In the only closed session of the annual meeting, delegates last night denounced the President's tax-supported health insurance proposal as "the first step in a plan for general socialization, not only of the medical profession, but of all professions, industry and labor."

In a statement issued after the meeting, the AMA policy group said that voluntary pre-payment medical plans now in operation in 24 states would achieve all the objects of Mr. Truman's program, as embodied in the Wagner-Murray-Dingell bill, and provide "the highest type of medical service without regimentation."

The statement charged that the senate measure was "founded on a (Continued on Page Two)"

READJUSTMENT PAY DRAWN BY 3,316 OHIO VETS

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5—The number of Ohio veterans drawing readjustment pay increased from 2,850 to 3,316 during the week ending November 17, the Veterans Administration said today.

Ohio total was lower than any of its surrounding states. Indiana had 7,689 on the list; Kentucky, 3,410; West Virginia, 5,323; Pennsylvania, 33,997 and Michigan, 10,801.

The national total was 225,579, increased from the previous week's figure of 207,342, although the number drawing the unemployment pay dropped in some states.

Ohio veterans received $111,498 in readjustment pay during that week, while the national total paid out was $5,233,209.

LAUSCHE WOULD DELAY CIVIL SERVICE EXAMS

COLUMBUS, Dec. 5—A request by Governor Frank J. Lausche to delay state civil service examinations until more Ohio veterans have returned was under consideration today by state civil service commission.

Various veterans' organizations have complained against the holding of examinations at the present time, the governor said.

Examinations for state civil service posts were not held during the war.

'I'm Leaving My Kid Gloves At Home' Former Envoy To China States

Many Solons Demanding Full Probe Of Activities Of State Department

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5—Patrick J. Hurley, resigned ambassador to China, charged today that career diplomats in China wanted to give lend-lease arms to Chinese Communists with the deliberate purpose of destroying the central government of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek.

Hurley told the senate foreign relations committee that the man who led this policy was George Atcheson, Jr., then serving as counselor at the American embassy in Chungking. Atcheson later returned to this country and then was assigned as adviser to Gen. Douglas MacArthur in Tokyo.

Hurley recounted that about last January 20 or 21 he called in the heads of all American agencies in China and explained to them what he considered the American policy there — strong support of the Chungking government with the object of keeping its armies in the war against Japan.

He said nobody dissented from these views at that time.

Hurley told the senate committee he would ask the state department to make public his reports from China detailing his charges that pro-Communist U. S. career diplomats are undermining American foreign policy.

Hurley told the committee it was a statutory offense to reveal unclassified documents to unauthorized persons, so he was asking the state department to make available his reports—or at least paraphrases of them—that would avoid giving away the codes in which they were sent.

He was ready to give specific names and incidents to support his charges that pro-Communist foreign service men sided with China. (Continued on Page Two)

2 JET ENGINES GIVE SPEED TO SHOOTING STAR

WRIGHT FIELD, O., Dec. 5—Two revolutionary jet engines, known as the I-16 and I-40 were responsible for the super-speeds attained by the Army's jet-fighter the Lockheed P-80 Shooting Star. It was revealed here today by Air Technical Service Command officials.

The I-16, an earlier model, was used in the P-59, first American jet-plane. The I-40 operates on the same principle with the exception of an improved line of gas-flow to the main turbine.

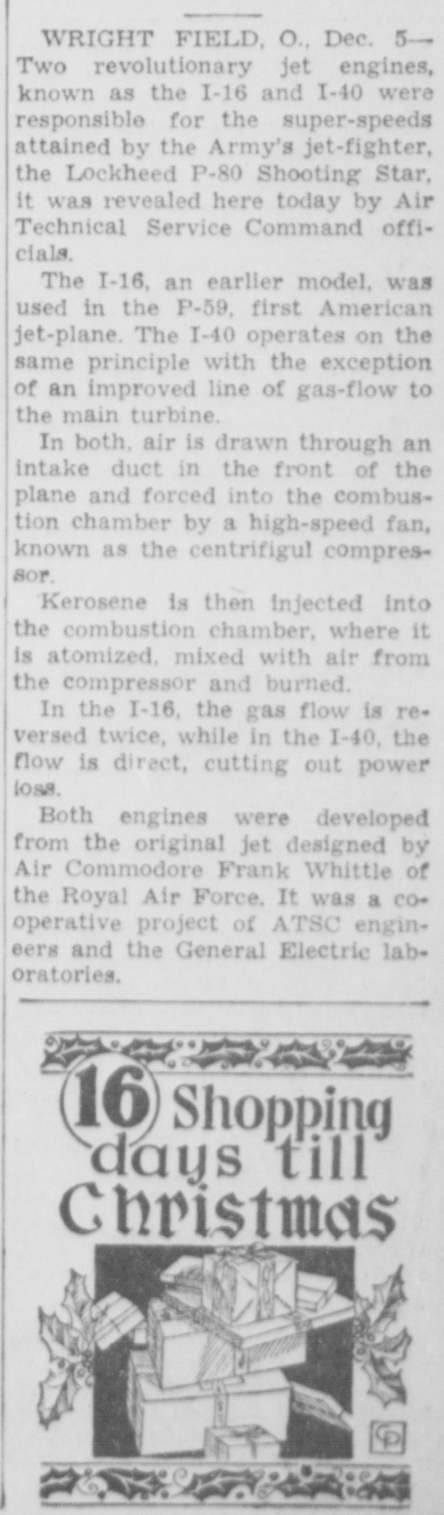

In both, air is drawn through an intake duct in the front of the plane and forced into the combustion chamber by a high-speed fan, known as the centrifugal compressor.

Kerosene is then injected into the combustion chamber, where it is atomized, mixed with air from the compressor and burned.

In the I-16, the gas flow is reversed twice, while in the I-40, the flow is direct, cutting out power loss.

Both engines were developed from the original jet designed by Air Commodore Frank Whittle of the Royal Air Force. It was a cooperative project of ATSC engineers and the General Electric laboratories.

Many Solons Demanding Full Probe Of Activities Of State Department

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5—Patrick J. Hurley, resigned ambassador to China, charged today that career diplomats in China wanted to give lend-lease arms to Chinese Communists with the deliberate purpose of destroying the central government of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek.

Hurley told the senate foreign relations committee that the man who led this policy was George Acheson, Jr., then serving as counselor at the American embassy in Chungking. Acheson later returned to this country and then was assigned as adviser to Gen. Douglas MacArthur in Tokyo.

Hurley recounted that about last January 20 or 21 he called in the heads of all American agencies in China and explained to them what he considered the American policy there—strong support of the Chungking government with the object of keeping its armies in the war against Japan.

He said nobody dissented from these views at that time.

Hurley told the senate committee he would ask the state department to make public his reports from China detailing his charges that pro-Communist U. S. career diplomats are undermining American foreign policy.

Hurley told the committee it was a statutory offense to reveal unclassified documents to unauthorized persons, so he was asking the state department to make available his reports—or at least paraphrases of them that would avoid giving away the codes in which they were sent.

He was ready to give specific names and incidents to support his charges that pro-Communist foreign service men sided with China. (Continued on Page Two)

2 JET ENGINES GIVE SPEED TO SHOOTING STAR

WRIGHT FIELD, O., Dec. 5—Two revolutionary jet engines, known as the I-16 and I-40 were responsible for the super-speeds attained by the Army's jet-fighter, the Lockheed P-80 Shooting Star, it was revealed here today by Air Technical Service Command officials.

The I-16, an earlier model, was used in the P-59, first American jet-plane. The I-40 operates on the same principle with the exception of an improved line of gas-flow to the main turbine.

In both, air is drawn through an intake duct in the front of the plane and forced into the combustion chamber by a high-speed fan, known as the centrifugal compressor.

Kerosene is then injected into the combustion chamber, where it is atomized, mixed with air from the compressor and burned.

In the I-16, the gas flow is reversed twice, while in the I-40, the flow is direct, cutting out power loss.

Both engines were developed from the original jet designed by Air Commodore Frank Whittle of the Royal Air Force. It was a co-operative project of ATSC engineers and the General Electric laboratories.

ese Reds in opposition to American foreign policy.

"I'm leaving my kid gloves at home today," Hurley said before he stepped into the hearing room. "But I'm presenting no prepared statement. The foreign relations committee called the meeting and I'll let them direct the conversation."

Committee Chairman Tom Connally, D. Tex., declined to speculate on the course of the hearing. He has invited Secretary of State James F. Byrnes to attend the session if he desires.

Connally called in Hurley as the first step to answer congressional demands for a complete investigation of the state department. The requests were touched off by Hurley's blistering indictment of career diplomats in his statement of resignation last Tuesday.

"The professional foreign service men sided with the Chinese Communist armed party and the imperialist bloc of nations whose policy it was to keep China divided against herself," Hurley said at the time.

Asking for full publicity on the state department's troubles, Hurley charged that "we are permitting ourselves to be sucked into a power bloc on the side of colonial imperialism against Communist imperialism." This, he said, is laying the groundwork for World War III.

Hurley complained that when he asked that out-of-step career diplomats in Chungking be dismissed, they were transferred back to Washington "as my superiors."

At least one member of the foreign relations committee believes that Hurley—Republican secretary of war in the Hoover administration—is "running for president." Others are irked because Hurley announced his resignation in the press before he told Byrnes. But senators frankly speculated that Hurley's blast and the subsequent inquiries may have far-reaching effects on American foreign policy and state department practices.

It has already led to a clarification by the state department of its policies in China. As a result of the Hurley row, Rep. Jack Z. Anderson, R. Calif., asked Byrnes to explain the U. S. position there. Byrnes replied that the United States was for "a strong, united and democratic China" although "we deem it desirable and essential that China solve her internal problems."

"While we recognize that this is a task which China must carry out largely through her own efforts, we seek by all appropriate and practicable means to pursue such policies and actions as will best facilitate China's achievement of internal unity and stability," Byrnes added.

This re-confirmation of America's support for the Chungking government of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek probably will receive elaboration soon from President Truman.

He has promised to make public his detailed instructions to Gen. George C. Marshall, who was named to succeed Hurley a few hours after the war-time ambassador resigned.

Communists picketing the White House in protest against U. S. policies yesterday got an invitation to "go back to Russia" if they don't like it here. The suggestion came from Rep. Robert Rich, R. Pa. He said "the President ought to use a big stick and congress ought to get busy and clean every hoodlum from this country."

Other congressmen also denounced the pickets, who have been demanding Byrnes' resignation.

NAVY SPEEDS UP VETS' RETURN FROM PACIFIC

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5—Repat-riation of American troops from the Pacific theater is being stepped up.

The War Department said that 32 troop transports, with a combined capacity of 83,000 men, are being shifted from the Atlantic to the Pacific. Seventeen of the vessels are fast transports, including the West Point, largest U. S. liner. The others are converted Liberty ships.

Several of the Pacific-bound ships already are on the move to their new assignment. The rest will arrive at east coast ports within the next 15 days and move through the Panama Canal by Jan. 1.

Other developments in connection with the housing situation:

1. AFL President William Green endorsed the Wagner-Ellender-Taft housing aid bill but recommended that the interest rate on federal home purchase loans be reduced from 4 to 3½ per cent.

2. Rep. Clyde Doyle, D. Calif., charged that the "red tape" and delay involved in the loan provisions of the GI bill of rights are making it difficult for veterans to buy homes.

3. Blandford told the house banking committee he would favor authority for the NHA to send an agent into a critical housing area to stabilize and promote construction and to direct the supply of materials. But this would apply only to areas where private industry has failed to meet production requirements.

STATE MAY NOT GET GROUNDS IN TIME FOR FAIR

COLUMBUS, Dec. 5—Negotiations were under way today between representatives of the army and the Ohio department of agriculture over details concerning the return of the state fair grounds, which department officials said may be accomplished too late to make a 1946 state fair possible.

Lt. Col. J. G. Griggs of the air forces in Dayton said the air forces depot, now used as an air forces depot, would be returned to the state by March 1.

The March 1 date will not be early enough to permit completion of repairs and plans for the fair, according to Bryan P. Sandies, assistant state agriculture director.

HOME IS TOPIC AT NEBRASKA GRANGE MEETING

"Home" was the theme for the Nebraska Grange Tuesday evening and group singing of "Old Folks at Home" opened the meeting.

An article "So Long as There are Homes" was the subject of an article read by Mrs. Thaddeus Cromley.

Pvt. William Wharton who is spending a short furlough at his home in Walnut township told of his work in the armed forces since entering service. At present he is studying light repair work at Camp Crowder.

Fred Hedges sang a solo number "Little Gray Home in the West." He was accompanied at the piano by Miss Sarah Hedges. The ten commandments for husbands and wives were given by several members of the grange. A poem "Home" was read by Mrs. Hugh Solt and Mrs. Homer Reher led the discussion on "Home and Family."

For his second solo Mr. Hedges sang "My Little Home on the Hill." Mrs. Russell Hedges, lecturer, read a dramatic story "Going Home." Group singing of "Home Sweet Home" closed the meeting.

Everyone is asked to bring a 25 cent gift to the December 18 meeting, also each family will donate popcornballs and candy.

WALLACE WARNS DANGER COMING

to work for increased production and consumption to raise the standard of living of the whole nation. Government's job is to encourage such enterprise he said.

The congress' program will include a public discussion of the industrial future of atomic energy by nine scientists and industrialists responsible for the harnessing of the atom.

Wallace told a meeting in Madison Square Garden last night that the hope of an age of abundance with atomic energy made possible could do more to prevent war than any control over atomic bombs could.

Approximately 4,500 manufacturers were to attend the sessions, the largest gathering in NAM history.

The atom symposium, to be held at the Thursday luncheon session, will have President James B. Conant of Harvard university as moderator and will include Maj. Gen. L. R. Groves, commander of the Manhattan project, as one of the round-table speakers.

Also on today's program was Frederick C. Crawford, of Cleveland, chairman of the NAX executive committee and president of Thompson Products, Inc. The luncheon speaker was Ira Mosher, retiring NAM president.

The program also included: Walter B. Welschberger, NAM executive vice-president; Cloud Wampler, president of the Carrier Corp. of Syracuse, N. Y.; and Dr. Claude Robinson of Opinion Research Corp.

GOP HUDDLES ON CAMPAIGN PLANS FOR 1946

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5—Congressional Republicans went into last-minute huddles today on the campaign program they hope will bring victory to the GOP in the 1946 elections.

Leaders carefully kept secret details of their proposed 1946 "platform." They admitted there was some disagreement, but predicted it would be accepted in ample time for submission to the Republican national committee in Chicago this week-end.

House Republican leader Joseph W. Martin, Jr., Mass., indicated there was only a slim chance of getting an agreement early enough to announce the program tonight. He said it was possible it would not be made public until the Chicago meeting.

Chairman Robert A. Taft, O., of the Senate GOP steering committee said some Republican senators criticized the program as being too general.

They suggested more specific issues on the farm and social welfare planks, Taft, however, said he believed any statement of policy such as the Republicans were drafting would have to be general in nature.

He said it would be impossible to pick out individual issues—and mentioned universal military training as an example—and make a stand for or against them.

Martin called house Republicans into a meeting early today to consider the statement. GOP senators also meet again late today.

MURRAY LEADS FIGHT AGAINST ADMINISTRATION

First Break Since 1932 Touched Off By UAW President In Talk

strike. There was little doubt that the outcome would be unfavorable. The United Steel Workers, Murray's own union, will act on President Truman's program at a wage policy committee meeting Dec. 10.

The meeting, following a nationwide strike vote for a $2 a day wage increase, originally was called to draw up strike plans.

The magazine Iron Age said today that the threat of a tie-up in the steel industry loomed as large or larger than ever as a result of the President's suggested formula for curing the nation's labor problems. The trade journal previously had predicted a walkout after the first of the year.

Urges More Speed

A note of urgency was injected into negotiations between United Automobile Workers (CIO) officials and representatives of the strikebound General Motors automotive empire as a result of impending labor legislation.

Although the meetings were concerned only with alleged illegal picketing at 93 GM plants, both sides hoped to stave off a forced solution on their dispute.

GM officials, known to oppose the proposed commission's power to lay open company books to public view, yesterday reiterated the belief that points at issue could be negotiated between the parties without government intervention.

Committee Plans Report
In the meantime, the UAW's "impartial" committee of 14 prominent Americans, headed by ex-OPA Administrator Leon Henderson, prepared to complete an examination of negotiation records and was expected to make a recommendation by nightfall.

Murray was joined in his attack on the Truman administration by George Meany, secretary-treasurer of the AFL, who said at Harrisburg, Pa., that the AFL would not accept legislation that "compels workers to work even for a minute against their will."

The President's proposal would make it illegal for a union to strike during a 30-day period while government-appointed fact-finders investigated disputes.

In his radio address, Murray declared that American workers had turned to their right to strike in "self-protection" after management had refused to bargain for higher wages to maintain wartime salaries.

That, he said, was the reason 175,000 General Motors employees were on strike and why steel workers, electrical workers, aluminum, packinghouse, rubber workers and others had voted overwhelmingly in favor of strikes.

Executives 'Stranded'
In other labor developments, into negotiations between United manufacturing company executives were "stranded" inside the company's Stamford, Conn., plant, and AFL Typographical Union members remained on strike at three Seattle newspapers.

The Yale & Towne officials, participating in what one executive termed a "reverse sit-down strike," worked as maintenance men in the strikebound plant, slept on crude bunks and ate salmon and soup from the company ceteria.

Striking AFL machinists had no objection to their leaving the plant but warned that once they had left the grounds, they would not be permitted to re-enter.

Seattle ITU members, on strike more than two weeks, voted last night to reject a compromise wage offer submitted by publishers of the city's three daily newspapers.

Fourteen senators asked President Truman to appoint a fact-finding board to intervene in the "extremely critical" truck strike in the Middle West and urged the President to ask drivers to return to their jobs immediately.

Some 10,000 Cudahy Meat company workers went back to work today after a 24-hour strike protesting a company statement that it was unable to discuss wage increases at this time.

enlisted men and 94 officers were aboard the Weltevreden, commanded by Col. James B. Gall of Hillsboro, O. They were sent to Camp Anza, Calif., before being dispatched to Army separation centers.

The division originally contained members of the 129th Illinois infantry regiment, later transferred from the 37th.

In its three campaigns, the division accounted for 33,700 Japs and its members won five congressional medals. Most famous was Pvt. Roger Young, who gave his life for his buddies and was immortalized in the infantry ballad. Of the original complement, 1,127 died in combat and 7,430 were wounded in action.

The division went overseas in May, 1942, and landed on Fiji June 10. The men fought through New Georgia, Bougainville and Luzon and were mopping up the northern Philippines when the war ended.

John H. Butson, undersecretary of agriculture, declared that government controls over farm production in the postwar period "will be much more far-reaching than in the 1930's unless some way is found to expand the use of farm products in this country or step up exports."

He reported that the great need of wartime foreign nations will absorb most farm production not used in this country in 1946. But by 1947 and 1948, he said, farmers must expect a decline in foreign demand.

The house of delegates approved, however, sections of the President's proposal which recommended federal aid for building health centers and developing a national research foundation.

Sections of the proposal favoring extension of maternal and child care services and compensation for loss of earnings due to sickness were referred back to the public relations and legislation committee for further consideration.

The delegates, representing more than 125,000 American physicians voted support to the Magnuson bill, which would place a research foundation under a scientific board, rather than under one person appointed by the president.

Opposition to the insurance provisions of President Truman's health proposal also was expressed, on the grounds that the program would be "enormously expensive" and would result in increased taxation "for the entire population of the United States."

EICHELBERGER DUE

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 4—Lt. Gen. Robert Eichelberger, commander of the U. S. 8th Army in Japan, will arrive at Long Beach, Calif., by air Friday on a 45-day leave, the Army announced here today.

midst of regular Japanese language weather broadcasts. Mitchell said interception of the "winds message" would have given us more to go on," but he questioned whether the message was ever sent at all. He said the committee already has received report from the FCC showing that the message was picked up Dec. 4, 1941, by a Japanese listener on an FCC monitoring station.

"That," Mitchell said, "is the false winds message."

He suggested it may have caused confusion among witnesses who were asked if they ever saw the "wind message," and said his reaction was that it was "much ado about nothing."

He also told the committee that the FCC reported that on the afternoon of Dec. 7 a winds message was received meaning breaking of relations with England. He said it was to warn the Japanese abroad that they were about to be at war with Britain.

The committee was asked through the state department whether the Dutch, British and Australians picked up the message. The Australians replied that they did not. The others have not yet been heard from.

"We also sent to Gen. (Douglas) MacArthur a request that he attempt to find out from Japanese records if they sent out any message before Dec. 7," Mitchell said. "He reports they say they sent out the Dec. 7 message about war with England."

Mitchell said the Japanese report "for whatever it is worth" would indicate that no messages were sent out other than what FCC picked up.

NEW FIGHTING BREAKS OUT IN CENTRAL JAVA

BATAVIA, Dec. 5—Indonesian extremists continued to burn homes in the northern part of Bandoeng and new fighting flared at Ambarawa in central Java, a British communique said today.

The Bandoeng revolutionary radio announced that the British and Indonesians had agreed on concentrating Europeans and Eurasians in a certain sector of town under joint protection of British and Indonesian police.

The broadcast warned, however, that if Dutch troops fire on the Indonesian police the latter may seek revenge.

Gurkha troops in Bandoeng, supported by artillery and tanks, attacked a building held by Indonesians yesterday. The Indonesians withdrew after setting the building afire. Booby traps, explosives and arms were found in the building.

He said that retention and expansion of island bases depends upon whether or not the Philippines are given their independence. The General declined to comment on the Pearl Harbor inquiry or the Japanese war-crime trials because they are "in the scope of international politics."

COLUMBUS, Dec. 5.—Negotiations were under way today between representatives of the army and the Ohio department of agriculture over details concerning the return of the state fair grounds, which department officials said may be accomplished too late to make a 1946 state fair possible.

Col. J. G. Griggs of the air forces in Dayton said the air forces depot, now used as an air forces depot, would be returned to the state by March 1.

The March 1 date will not be early enough to permit completion of repairs and plans for the fair, according to Bryan P. Sandies, assistant state agriculture director.

HOME IS TOPIC AT NEBRASKA GRANGE MEETING

"Home" was the theme for the Nebraska Grange Tuesday evening and group singing of "Old Folks at Home" opened the meeting.

An article "So Long as There are Homes" was the subject of an article read by Mrs. Thaddeus Cromley.

Pvt William Wharton who is spending a short furlough at his home in Walnut township told of his work in the armed forces since entering service. At present he is studying radio repair work at Camp Crozier.

Fred Hedges sang a solo number "Little Gray Home in the West." He was accompanied at the piano by Miss Sarah Hedges. The ten commandments for husbands and wives were given by several members of the grange. A poem "Home" was read by Mrs. Hugh Solt and Mrs. Homer Reher led the discussion on "Home and Family".

For his second solo Mr. Hedges sang "My Little Home on the Hill". Mrs. Russell Hedges, lecturer, read a dramatic story "Going Home".

Group singing of "Home Sweet Home" closed the meeting.

Everyone is asked to bring a 25 cent gift to the December 18 meeting, also each family will donate popcornballs and candy.

WALLACE WARNS DANGER COMING

to work for increased production and consumption to raise the standard of living of the whole nation. Government's job is to encourage such enterprise he said.

The congress' program will include a public discussion of the industrial future of atomic energy by nine scientists and industrialists responsible for the harnessing of the atom.

Wallace told a meeting in Madison Square Garden last night that the hope of an age of abundance with atomic energy made possible could do more to prevent war than any control over atomic bombs could do.

Approximately 4,500 manufacturers were to attend the sessions, the largest gathering in NAM history.

The atom symposium, to be held at the Thursday luncheon session, will have President James B. Conant of Harvard university as moderator and will include Maj. Gen. L. R. Groves, commander of the Manhattan project, as one of the round-table speakers.

Also on today's program was Frederick C. Crawford, of Cleveland, chairman of the NAX executive committee and president of Thompson Products, Inc. The luncheon speaker was Ira Mosher, retiring NAM president.

The program also included: Walter B. Welschberger, NAM executive vice-president; Cloud Wampler, president of the Carrier Corp., of Syracuse, N. Y.; and Dr. Claude Robinson of Opinion Research Corp.

GOP HUDDLES ON CAMPAIGN PLANS FOR 1946

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—Congressional Republicans went into last-minute huddles today on the campaign program they hope will bring victory to the GOP in the 1946 elections.

Leaders carefully kept secret details of their proposed 1946 "platform." They admitted there was some disagreement, but predicted it would be accepted in ample time for submission to the Republican national committee in Chicago this week-end.

House Republican leader Joseph W. Martin Jr., Mass., indicated there was only a slim chance of getting an agreement early enough to announce the program tonight. He said it was possible it would not be made public until the Chicago meeting.

Chairman Robert A. Taft, O., of the Senate GOP steering committee said some Republican senators criticized the program as being too general.

They suggested more specific issues on the farm and social welfare planks. Taft, however, said he believed any statement of policy such as the Republicans were drafting would have to be general in nature.

He said it would be impossible to pick out individual issues—and mentioned universal military training as an example—and make a stand for or against them.

Martin called house Republicans into a meeting early today to consider the statement. GOP senators also meet again late today.

MURRAY LEADS FIGHT AGAINST ADMINISTRATION

First Break Since 1932 Touched Off By UAW President In Talk

strike. There was little doubt that the outcome would be unfavorable.

The United Steel Workers, Murray's own union, will act on President Truman's program at a wage policy committee meeting Dec. 10.

The meeting, following a nationwide strike vote for a $2 a day wage increase, originally was called to draw up strike plans.

The magazine Iron Age said today that the threat of a tie-up in the steel industry loomed as large or larger than ever as a result of the President's suggested formula for curbing the nation's labor problems. The trade journal previously had predicted a walkout after the first of the year.

Urges More Speed
A note of urgency was injected into negotiations between United Automobile Workers (CIO) officials and representatives of the strikebound General Motors automobile empire as a result of impending labor legislation.

Although the meetings were concerned only with alleged illegal picketing at 93 GM plants, both sides hoped to stave off a forced solution on their dispute.

GM officials, known to oppose the proposed commission's power to lay open company books to public view, yesterday reiterated the belief that points at issue could be negotiated between the parties without government intervention.

Committee Plans Report
In the meantime, the UAW's "impartial" committee of 14 prominent Americans, headed by ex-OPA Administrator Leon Henderson, prepared to complete an examination of negotiation records and was expected to make a recommendation by nightfall.

Murray was joined in his attack on the Truman administration by George Meany, secretary-treasurer of the AFL, who said at Harrisburg, Pa., that the AFL would not accept legislation that "compels workers to work even for a minute against their will."

The President's proposal would make it illegal for a union to strike during a 30-day period while government-appointed fact-finders investigated disputes.

In his radio address, Murray declared that American workers had turned to their right to strike in "self-protection" after management had refused to bargain for higher wages to maintain wartime salaries.

That, he said, was the reason 175,000 General Motors employees were on strike and why steel workers, electrical workers, aluminum, packinghouse, rubber workers and others had voted overwhelmingly in favor of strikes.

Executives 'Stranded'
In other labor developments, into negotiations between United factoring company executives were "stranded" inside the company's Stamford, Conn. plant, and AFL Typographical Union members remained on strike at three Seattle newspapers.

The Yale & Towne officials, participating in what one executive termed a "reverse sit-down strike," worked as maintenance men in the strikebound plant, slept on crude bunks and ate salmon and soup from the company cafeteria.

Striking AFL machinists had no objection to their leaving the plant but warned that once they had left the grounds, they would not be permitted to re-enter.

Seattle ITU members, on strike more than two weeks, voted last night to reject a compromise wage offer submitted by publishers of the city's three daily newspapers.

Fourteen senators asked President Truman to appoint a fact-finding board to intervene in the "extremely critical" truck strike in the Middle West and urged the President to ask drivers to return to their jobs immediately.

Some 10,000 Cudahy Meat company workers went back to work today after a 24-hour strike protesting a company statement that it was unable to discuss wage increases at this time.

ADVANCE UNITS OF 37TH BACK

enlisted men and 94 officers were aboard the Weltevreden, commanded by Col. James B. Gall of Hillsboro, O. They were sent to Camp Anza, Calif., before being dispatched to Army separation centers.

The division originally contained members of the 129th Illinois Infantry regiment, later transferred to the 37th.

In its three campaigns, the division accounted for 33,700 Japs and its members won five congressional medals. Most famous was Pvt. Roger Young, who gave his life for his buddies and was immortalized in the infantry ballad.

Of the original complement, 1,127 died in combat and 7,430 were wounded in action.

The division went overseas in May, 1942, and landed on Fiji June 10. The men fought through New Georgia, Bougainville and Luzon and were mopping up the northern Philippines when the war ended.

Deaths and Funerals

ISAAC ATER

Isaac Ater, 77, died at his home in Williamsport at 4:30 p. m. Tuesday. He served for about 30 years as sexton of Spring Lawn cemetery.

He was born October 5, 1868, in Deercreek township, the son of Abram and Mary Wiley Ater. He was married to Ora Wood, who died July 14, 1945.

Surviving are two children, Mrs. Nellie West, and Mrs. Fern Ziegler, both of Williamsport; two grandsons, Orville West, in the Navy, and James at home; a brother, Anderson Ater and a sister, Miss Janie Ater.

Mr. Ater was a member of the Williamsport Methodist church where funeral will be held at 2:30 p. m. Friday, the Rev. R. S. Meyer officiating. Burial, in charge of the C. E. Hill funeral home will be in Spring Lawn cemetery.

Funeral services will be held at 2:30 p. m. Friday at the home of Mrs. Frank Gatwood, 43, wife of Frank Gatwood, of Kingston, died at 2 a. m. Wednesday in St. Anthony's hospital, Columbus. Funeral services will be held Friday at 2:30 p. m. in the United Brethren church at Hallsville, the Rev. O. L. Ferguson officiating. Burial will be in Hallsville cemetery by the Hill funeral home.

Mrs. Gatwood was born November 15, 1902 in Ross county, the daughter of James and Ida Gatwood Hardy. Besides her husband, she is survived by three sons, Johnnie, Donald and Joseph, all of Kingston, and three daughters, Carol Louise, at home, and Mrs. Bernice Pennington and Mrs. Dorothy Pennington, both of Pickaway township.

She also survived by four grandchildren: four brothers, Charles and Dewey Hardy, both of Kingston, Stanley, route 2 Circleville, and Herman, Ashville, route 2, and five sisters, Mrs. Altha Rossiter, Mrs. Margaret Koch, Mrs. Martha Nungesser and Miss Effie Hardy, all of Kingston, and Mrs. Elva Rhoades, Chillicothe.

WILLIAM A. MARTIN
William A. Martin, 79, a retired N. & W. section foreman of Kingston, died at his home at 5:15 a. m. Wednesday. Funeral services will be held Saturday at 10 a. m. in the Hill funeral home, the Rev. Leroy Wilkin officiating. Burial will be in the Lucasville cemetery.

Mr. Martin was born October

Farm Price Guarantees To Be Reduced On Most Crops By Government

can be forced is through weakened price supports.

John H. Butson, undersecretary of agriculture, declared that government controls over farm production in the postwar period "will be much more far-reaching than in the 1930's unless some way is found to expand the use of farm products in this country or step up exports."

He reported that the great need of wartime foreign nations will absorb most farm production not used in this country in 1946. But by 1947 and 1948, he said, farmers must expect a decline in foreign demand.

GOERING WRONG ON RAF POWER

would not be able to show any results worth mentioning before 1942 for her new high pressure rearmament in the air."

Goering rated Germany as still weak at sea but said the Reich was ready for war if it should come and would be much stronger within nine months.

He said the Junkers 88 had just gone into production and would be very valuable in attacking Britain and Atlantic shipping. Monthly production of the Junkers was expected to reach 280 planes by autumn and 350 by the end of 1939.

Goering's examination of Germany's military position was the concluding evidence presented by Sidney J. Alderman, assistant prosecutor, who would present a statement of evidence concerning German aggression against Czechoslovakia.

He presented evidence that Adolf Hitler and Goering browbeat Dr. Emil Hacha into surrendering Czechoslovakia by threatening to bomb Prague and invade the country.

They threatened Hacha so violently during the conference at Hitler's chancellery that he fainted. He was revived by physicians whom Goering had ordered to wait outside the conference room.

Minutes of the meeting disclosed that Hitler told Hacha he was "almost ashamed" to admit that the Germans would use an entire division against every Czech battalion if the Czechs forced them to fight.

"The fustler stated that his decision was irrevocable and it is well known what a decision of the fustler meant," the document said.

false assumption that solution of the medical care problem for the American people is the panacea for all the troubles of the needy."

The house of delegates approved, however, sections of the President's proposal which recommended federal aid for building health centers and developing a national research foundation.

Sections of the proposal favoring extension of maternal and child care services and compensation for loss of earnings due to sickness were referred back to the public relations and legislation committee for further consideration.

The delegates, representing more than 125,000 American physicians voted support to the Magnuson bill, which would place a research foundation under a scientific board, rather than under one person appointed by the president.

Opposition to the insurance provisions of President Truman's health proposal also was expressed, on the grounds that the program would be "enormously expensive" and would result in increased taxation "for the entire population of the United States."

WAINWRIGHT IN CALL FOR HUGE STANDING ARMY

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 5.—Universal military training and a 900,000-man standing army are absolute necessities for peace, Gen. Jonathan M. Wainwright, hero of Bataan, said yesterday.

Wainwright, imprisoned by the Japanese after he was forced to surrender U. S. troops on Bataan and Corregidor, said that Japan and Germany should be occupied for "a long time—10 or 20 years."

"America must have universal military training—the program recommended to congress by President Truman," Wainwright said. "We need a regular Army of at least 900,000 men—possibly 1,000,000 men."

He said that retention and expansion of island bases depends upon whether or not the Philippines are given their independence.

The General declined to comment on the Pearl Harbor inquiry or the Japanese war-crimes trials because they are "in the scope of international politics."

Wainwright, with his aide, Col. O. I. Holman, and Holman's daughter, leave here Thursday by auto. They plan to stop in Arizona and southern states and be in New York by Jan. 15.

midst of regular Japanese language weather broadcasts.

Mitchell said interception of the "wind message" would have given us more to go on, but he questioned whether the message was ever sent at all. He said the committee already has received a report from the FCC showing that the message was picked up Dec. 4, 1941, by a Japanese listener on an FCC monitoring station.

"That," Mitchell said, "is false winds message."

He suggested it may have caused confusion among witnesses who were asked if they ever saw the "wind message," and said his reaction was that it was "much ado about nothing."

He also told the committee that the FCC reported that on the afternoon of Dec. 7 a winds message was received meaning breaking of relations with England. He said it was to warn the Japanese abroad that they were about to be at war with Britain.

The committee was asked through the state department whether the Dutch, British and Australians picked up the message. The Australians replied that they did not. The others have not yet been heard from.

"We also sent to Gen. (Douglas) MacArthur a request that he attempt to find out from Japanese records if they sent out any message before Dec. 7," Mitchell said. "He reports they say they sent out the Dec. 7 message about war with England."

Mitchell said the Japanese report "for whatever it is worth" would indicate that no messages were sent out other than what FCC picked up.

NEW FIGHTING BREAKS OUT IN CENTRAL JAVA

BATAVIA, Dec. 5.—Indonesian extremists continued to burn homes in the northern part of Bandoeng and new fighting flared at Ambarawa in central Java, a British communiqué said today.

The Bandoeng revolutionary radio announced that the British and Indonesians had agreed on concentrating Europeans and Eurasians in a certain sector of town under joint protection of British and Indonesian police.

The broadcast warned, however, that if Dutch troops fire on the Indonesian police the latter may seek revenge.

Gurkha troops in Bandoeng, supported by artillery and tanks, attacked a building held by Indonesians yesterday. The Indonesians withdrew after setting the building afire. Booby traps, explosives and arms were found in the building.

CRISSINGER IS TOP RECRUITER

Circleville Man Signs Up 59 Men For Regular Army In November

T/4 Loren W. Crissinger, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Crissinger, North Scioto street, is the top recruiter in the Columbus district. The U. S. Army recruiting service announced Wednesday.

Sgt. Crissinger, who is in Circleville every Saturday from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. to sign recruits at the post office, led all district men with 59 recruits during November.

Final tabulation for November shows that the office in Columbus more than met its quota and is leading offices in the Cleveland district. Last month the Columbus office was second.

The quota was set exceptionally high at 229 for November but the men came through with 233 enlistments. All men have put out their best efforts by explaining the many advantages offered in Uncle Sam's peace time army and many discharged veterans and young men of 17 and 18 have decided that the Army is a "good deal." The figures show that out of the 233 who enlisted or re-enlisted during the month of November, 102 have been discharged veterans who have signed up for 18 months, 2 years or 3 years and 131 have been men who have had no previous military experience.

Other outstanding individual recruiters for November are: Sgt. Maurice F. Turf, Columbus, with 29. Third place goes to T/4 Robert F. Dirks, Columbus, who recruited 27. All other men at the Columbus station made a good showing.

Men who desire to re-enlist are reminded that they may retain their present grades, if they re-enlist within 20 days after discharge and prior to February, 1946.

NAVY MAY QUIT HAULING TROOPS FOR CHINESE

CHINSIEN, Manchuria, Dec. 5 —Admiral Daniel E. Barbey, commander of the U. S. 7th fleet was understood today to have informed Gen. Tu Li-Ming that the U. S. Navy would not transport any new contingents of Chinese Nationalist troops to the civil war zone. Barbey, first high-ranking American officer to go into the interior of Manchuria in 14 years, spent two days visiting the commander of the Chinese nationalist forces in Manchuria.

With Tu, he watched Chinese pilots land the first American-made planes at Chinsien since the nationalists took over the city a week ago. Eleven C-46's brought supplies, reinforcements and munitions for Tu's troops fighting against Communist forces on the Mukden front.

It was implied that with inauguration of the Chinese air supply line, the U. S. Navy would withdraw from transporting nationalist units from rear bases to north China and Manchuria.

Barbey arrived at the port of Hailuo Sunday and traveled 50 miles to Chinsien in Tu's special four-coach train. He returned last night.

53 VETERANS TO BE GUESTS OF BROTHERHOOD

Fifty-three returned war veterans will be the honor guests Thursday evening of Lutheran Brotherhood at a turkey supper in the Trinity Lutheran parish house.

Other servicemen home on furlough also will be guests of the Brotherhood. More than 150 members of the Brotherhood have gone into service.

The meeting will start with a turkey supper at 6:45 p. m. George Eitel is head cook and is in charge of the banquet.

Carl Leist will be toastmaster for the program which follows the dinner. Speaker for the affair is Professor John O. Lang, Capital University, whose topic will be "How It Began".

DOUBLE QUICK ACTION
MEMPHIS, Tenn.—Anna Rose Peeler of Memphis was busy at work in the Fort McPherson, Ga., Separation Center when her attention was focused on one set of Army discharge papers.

That particular set got special and speedy attention from Mrs. Peeler for it was the discharge papers of her husband, Sgt. George Glen Peeler.

CRISSINGER IS TOP RECRUITER

Circleville Man Signs Up
59 Men For Regular
Army In November

T/4 Loren W. Crissinger, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Crissinger, North Scioto street, is the top recruiter in the Columbus district. The U. S. Army recruiting service announced Wednesday.

Sgt. Crissinger, who is in Circleville every Saturday from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. to sign recruits at the post office, led all district men with 59 recruits during November.

Final tabulation for November shows that the office in Columbus more than met its quota and is leading offices in the Cleveland district. Last month the Columbus office was second.

The quota was set exceptionally high at 229 for November but the men came through with 233 enlistments. All men have put out their best efforts by explaining the many advantages offered in Uncle Sam's peace time army and many discharged veterans and young men of 17 and 18 have decided that the Army is a "good deal." The figures show that out of the 233 who enlisted or re-enlisted during the month of November, 102 have been discharged veterans who have signed up for 18 months, 2 years or 3 years and 131 have been men who have had no previous military experience.

Other outstanding individual recruiters for November are: Sgt. Maurice F. Turf, Columbus, with 29. Third place goes to T/4 Robert F. Dirks, Columbus, who recruited 27. All other men at the Columbus station made a good showing.

Men who desire to re-enlist are reminded that they may retain their present grades, if they re-enlist within 20 days after discharge and prior to February, 1946.

NAVY MAY QUIT HAULING TROOPS FOR CHINESE

CHINSIEN, Manchuria, Dec. 5.—Admiral Daniel E. Barbey, commander of the U. S. 7th fleet was understood today to have informed Gen. Tu Li-Ming that the U. S. Navy would not transport any new contingents of Chinese Nationist troops to the civil war zone. Barbey, first high-ranking American officer to go into the interior of Manchuria in 14 years, spent two days visiting the commander of the Chinese nationalist forces in Manchuria.

With Tu, he watched Chinese pilots land the first American-made planes at Chinsien since the nationalists took over the city a week ago. Eleven C-46's brought supplies, reinforcements and munitions for Tu's troops fighting against Communist forces on the Mukden front.

It was implied that with inauguration of the Chinese air supply line, the U. S. Navy would withdraw from transporting nationalist units from rear bases to north China and Manchuria.

Barbey arrived at the port of Hulutao Sunday and traveled 50 miles to Chinsien in Tu's special four-coach train. He returned last night.

INDIANAPOLIS—Mrs. Warren Hyten of Indianapolis is still waiting for a reply to a cable which Army red tape forced her to send to her husband addressed only with "Warren, Hongkong, China." When she tried to answer a cablegram that her husband had sent her she found that return cablegrams could be sent only to the address as given in the message. Her husband had signed himself only "Warren."

VICTORY DRIVE FOR CLOTHING DATES ARE SET

Boyd Stout To Head Local Drive From January 7 Through January 31

The Victory Clothing Collection with a goal of providing garments for overseas relief will begin in Circleville and Pickaway county January 7 and continue through January 31.

J. Boyd Stout, 161 Edison avenue, who served as local chairman during the drive last Spring has been reappointed to head this year's drive by President Truman and Henry J. Kaiser, national chairman.

Plans for collection of the clothing are as yet incomplete, Mr. Stout said, but Pickaway counties will be asked to do their share in meeting the nation's goal in this second drive for clothing for overseas needy.

The national goal is to collect 100,000,000 garments, warm bedding and shoes. Each contributor will also be invited to enclose a "good will" letter in each garment to an unknown recipient, adding 100,000,000 letters to friends abroad to the quota for clothing.

In the letter received by Mr. Stout, President Truman said that the need for this collection is "imperative." The President wrote, "Without adequate clothing and other necessities of life to sustain victims of war on the long road to rehabilitation there can be no peace. I therefore ask you and the more than seven thousand other local chairmen to lead the nation in another successful clothing drive."

Expressing willingness to accept the chairmanship, Mr. Stout said, "In view of the President's appeal, Mr. Kaiser's response, and Mr. Kaiser's letter to me, I feel I must accept the responsibility to organize our community to meet this new challenge."

"UNRRA has informed local chairmen that every pound of the clothing contributed in the nationwide collection this past spring will be in the hands of war victims overseas by Christmas. But Mr. Kaiser's letter to me said that total victory has brought many more millions of war victims within range of our assistance. I know our community will again make every effort to do its part. No innocent victim of these years of horror must go naked while clothing hangs unused in the closets of America. We will all of us make our contribution toward a happier New Year for the helpless. Since the task is urgent, let's get ready now to undertake it. All that is asked is what ever used clothing, shoes and bedding we can spare."

"According to Mr. Kaiser's letter to me each contributor will be invited to enclose in the garments a 'good-will' letter to the unknown recipient. I think it is a wonderful idea to have this expression of international friendship."

WIDOW RECEIVES WILLIS' MEDAL

THE MEDAL OF HONOR is posthumously awarded Pharmacist's Mate, first class, John Harlan Willis, Columbia, Tenn., by Secretary of the Navy James Forrestal, right. The sailor's widow and son, left, receive the award as his grandfather, Austin Harlan, background, looks on. The citation accompanying the award, read in part, "Though strafed by shrapnel, Willis daringly advanced under furious enemy fire to aid a wounded Marine in a front line shell hole on Iwo Jima. When the foe hurled grenades into the hole, Willis promptly hurled them back, returning eight in this fashion. The ninth exploded in his hand, instantly killing him."

"UNBLOCK" your
DIGESTIVE TRACT

And Stop Dosing Your Stomach
With Soda and Alkalizers

Don't expect to get real relief from headache, sour stomach, gas and bad breath by taking soda and other alkalizers if the true cause of your trouble is constipation.

In this case, your real trouble is not in the stomach at all. But in the intestinal tract where 80% of your food is digested. And when it gets blocked it fails to digest properly.

What you want for real relief is not soda or an alkalizer—but something to "unblock" your intestinal tract. Something to clean it out effectively—help Nature get back on her feet.

Get Carter's Pills right now. Take them as directed. They gently and effectively "unblock" your digestive tract. This permits your food to move along normally. Nature's own digestive juices can then reach it. You get genuine relief that makes you feel really good again.

Get Carter's Pills at any drugstore—25¢. "Unblock" your intestinal tract for real relief from indigestion!

WIDOW RECEIVES WILLIS' MEDAL

THE MEDAL OF HONOR is posthumously awarded Pharmacist's Mate, first class, John Harlan Willis, Columbia, Tenn., by Secretary of the Navy James Forrestal, right. The sailor's widow and son, left, receive the award as his grandfather, Austin Harlan, background, looks on. The citation accompanying the award, read in part, "Though strayed by shrapnel, Willis daringly advanced under furious enemy fire to aid a wounded Marine in a front line shell hole on Iwo Jima. When the foe hurled grenades into the hole, Willis promptly hurled them back, returning eight in this fashion. The ninth exploded in his hand, instantly killing him." (International Soundphoto)

"UNBLOCK" your DIGESTIVE TRACT

And Stop Dosing Your Stomach
With Soda and Alkalizers

Don't expect to get real relief from headache, sour stomach, gas and bad breath by taking soda and other alkalizers if the true cause of your trouble is constipation.

In this case, your real trouble is not in the stomach at all. But in the intestinal tract where 80% of your food is digested. And when it gets blocked it fails to digest properly.

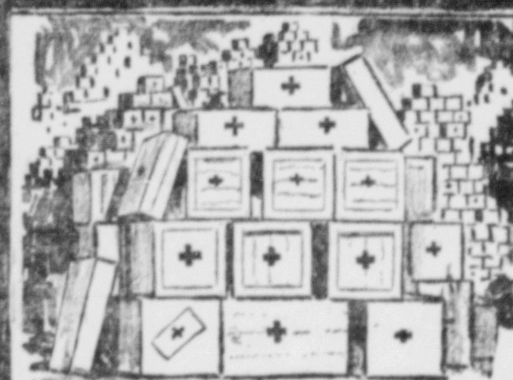

What you want for real relief is not soda or an alkalizer—but something to "unblock" your intestinal tract. Something to clean it out effectively—help Nature get back on her feet. Get Carter's Pills right now. Take them as directed. They gently and effectively "unblock" your digestive tract. This permits your food to move along normally. Nature's own digestive juices can then reach it. You get genuine relief that makes you feel really good again. Get Carter's Pills at any drugstore—25c. "Unblock" your intestinal tract for real relief from indigestion!

COUNTY PEACE TALKS SUNDAY

Five In Prince Of Peace Contest At Church In Williamsport

Pickaway County Prince of Peace declamation contest will be held Sunday evening December 9 in the Williamsport Methodist Church at 7:30. This contest is a part of the state-wide Prince of Peace declamation contest held by the Ohio Council of Churches.

A silver medal will be given by the Ohio Council of Churches to the winner of this contest and the winner will compete in the district contest to be held in January for a gold medal.

The district contest winners will compete in the state contest, the winner of first place receiving $200 in cash and a four year free tuition college scholarship, the winner of second place $100 and a two year free tuition college scholarship and the winner of third place $50.00 and a one year tuition college scholarship.

The state contest will be held in January in Columbus.

The following speakers and the churches and schools they represent will compete in the Pickaway county contest:

Carolyn Dearth, Morris Chapel; Helen Riffe, Salem Church; Betty Winegardner, Jackson school; Mary Penn, Emmett Chapel; Jerry Rasor, Commercial Point Methodist Church.

Arrangements for the contest have been under the direction of the Rev. Robert S. Meyer, county chairman with the cooperation of the pastors of the competing churches as the committee.

STREET CARS

MAYOR La Guardia of New York announces with pride that by the end of next year the metropolis will be free from street cars. Hundreds of smaller cities all over the country will rise up immediately to tell the world that they have been freed from such nuisances for years. But it is the nature of big cities to fall behind in modern progress.

This statement is not meant as a joke. Big cities are like elephants and camels, awkward in their operations, hard to turn around, and slow to get ideas. Small cities can be much more mobile in their mental and physical operations—if their citizens have ambition and enterprise.

Maybe the Atomic Bomb one of these days will be clearing our Panama Canal to sea level.

DISHWASHING REMAINS

ENTIRE meals, frozen, ready to be popped into the oven, thence moved directly to the dinner table, long promised to housewives, are about to be a reality according to national advertisements. Individually packed frozen foods produced commercially and in the family freezing locker have been so successful that the whole-frozen meal will be taken on faith by the housewife though she is still wondering how this is to be managed. It all sounds to her like an excellent short cut in kitchen techniques.

How about getting the dishes washed by some equally effective magic? Electric dishwashers help a lot, but they have limitations. Paper dishes are useful, too, but have never proved entirely satisfactory. Cannot some one soon invent a plastic ware which will be attractive, non-absorbent, non-leaking and inexpensive enough to be thrown away?

SENSELESS STRIKES

MILLIONS of Americans doubtless got a good laugh when the National Labor-Management conference, on reaching Washington, found itself tied up in a strike that halted all means of transportation except personal vehicles. But viewed as a background of the national picture, there was really nothing funny about it. Here was an essential process of modern, civilized life stalled and helpless, because an organized group of citizens chose to turn this public utility into a weapon of coercion for private purposes. Viewed from almost any viewpoint, it doesn't make sense.

An Open Letter to Gen. J. T. McNarney | A Plea for Sending Wives Overseas, Too

By HELEN ESSARY
Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON—"Please do a very good deed," writes M. R. S., who would speak out in her own name if required. "Please do a very good deed. Print the letter enclosed. I'd send it direct if I thought it would be read by that route. Friends have advised me that the best way to get a public official's attention is to get a columnist to broadcast your troubles. Here I go: "General Joseph T. McNarney.

"Dear General:

"You have just been appointed by President Truman to several big jobs. You succeed Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower as commander of the United States forces in the European theater, commander-in-chief of the United States Occupation Forces in Germany and United States representative of the Allied Control Council for Germany. You must be well backgrounded or you wouldn't be given so much power.

"Therefore, I am going to ask you to use your best thinking on a matter that concerns not only the success of the American occupation but the success of thousands of American marriages.

"You've simply got to let the American troops have their families with them in Europe. Here you are, seven months after the end of the war, still saying there is no place abroad for wives of fighting men.

"Yet a major general, who should know what he is talking about, says the only thing wrong with the United States soldier in Europe is that his morale is low. Everybody, especially the man himself, knows that a man's morale is better, that he is more efficient if he has his family with him than if he is sloshing around

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—The Pearl Harbor investigation was expected to be a whitewash affair.

It has become a red herring bombardment. Crimson-hued fish have darted out of the testimony since opening day, like directed missiles, filling and obscuring the air.

This is as the administration would like to have it. As long as the record can be padded exclusively with evidence as to who sent what telegram at what time, what Mr. Roosevelt did a year before, whether an army accusation against Mr. Hull was justified, the herring chase will save bigger fish beneath. It works better than whitewash.

For instance, no one has gotten around to Mr. Roosevelt yet. While every child above the age of six years in this whole wide country knows the Navy was run as a personal hobby-monopoly of the seafaring president, who was its assistant secretary during the last war—and while every conscious mentality under six realizes Pearl Harbor was a naval disaster worse than that of any nation in all modern history—you will find only incidental references to Mr. Roosevelt in the testimony thus far. While every naval, army and diplomatic official down the line has taken a rap, Mr. Roosevelt's memory has been given a wrap.

News-men watching the herring battle say this is because Messrs. Truman, Han-negan and Barkley, the political triumvirate of this government, decided early in the game Democrats would have to run on the Roosevelt ticket for the next few years and they did not want it punched.

A considerable public agitation was started to warn the investigators, congress and indeed all commentators that the development of any facts about Mr. Roosevelt would be considered "a smear" upon his great name. Consequently everyone got just a little scared off the scent before the herring started to fly.

Therefore, you will have to look behind the testimony and between the herring for solid explanations, but in this realm you will find the concrete evidence at about the halfway mark stacks up somewhat like this:

1—No one from the President on down did the right thing. No one connected with the problem can today do anything more than pass the blame on to another who may have committed a greater blunder. All failed—completely.

2—Their failure could be no more amazing if they had all been stricken with amnesia simultaneously. Here was a simple operation in strategy. The known Jap war plan was to move down upon Malaya and the Philippines for oil and stores. The known American counter war-strategy was to cut that line of supplies with our fleet after the Japs moved. The simplest possible strategical arithmetic will tell you the Japs, therefore, could be expected to try to cripple the fleet before launching their Asia attack. Yet it never occurred to anyone in Washington or Pearl Harbor that our fleet would be the initial point of attack.

alone. Heaters. Generally fed up.

"You notice, general, I said 'morale.' I'm not going to talk 'morale.' No one seems to any more. It's 'morale' I'm talking about. And it seems to me, with the criticisms coming out of Europe about the behavior of the GIs, you need to work a little on your troops' 'morale.'"

"I'm appealing to you because you are new at your job. Nobody could sell General Eisenhower the idea of letting the wives go over. This seemed odd to me, it was true.

"Maybe you will now give out the old excuse about no available housing for the wives and no food to feed them. Hundreds of women are going to Europe daily. I saw my husband off on a plane for Germany yesterday—this is why I am in such a state. Four women got on the plane. Two mink-coated females. I was told they were wives of UNRRA officials.

"Why shouldn't I have had the same chance for plane space as one of those women? While the war was on it was all right to have WACS abroad. Surely there is no need for keeping 4,000 of them in Europe now. It is the turn of the wives, many of whom can do office work, too.

"Here's an idea, general. If you say, but the WACs are in the Army—I say, put the wives in the Army, if it's a technicality that's keeping us home. You surely heard about those generals in the Pacific theater who got commissions for Australian WACs in the United States Army because they thought there were no American girls who would be so helpful or so pretty. That was a neat scandal in Brisbane. Remember?

"And what about the Red Cross workers who are still going over? Five thousand of them there now. Don't you think some wife could hand out hot coffee or jitterbug with a lonely GI? Wives of state department officials go with their husbands.

And wives of business men. Women workers with USO and UNO flock over.

"But what's the ban on Army and Navy wives? It couldn't be that some of you top heroes are just Big Butter and Egg Men. Wanting a fling and still have the wife to come home to. Maybe the wives won't be waiting.

"Well, general, this can't be the first time you've heard this story. Members of Congress get thousands such letters a day. Not only from wives. But from the men themselves, the younger men, in the service.

"Better arrange to send the families along to Europe."

Sore Fingertips Relieved By a Peroxide Solution

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

There are many types of work which may cause some injury to the fingertips. Such injuries will occur particularly in work which involves constant friction of the fingers against a rough surface.

In a paper-bag factory, the wire-stitching machine operators found that a great deal of damage to the skin of the fingers occurred due to rubbing against the rough brown paper from which the bags were made.

Frequent Treatment

Doctor J. Vincent Bates of England noted that two-thirds of the women working on the stitching machines found it necessary to have treatment of their fingers about once every two weeks. Just why the other one-third did not have any difficulty has not been determined. In treating these patients, he used zinc oxide adhesive plasters. The plasters relieved the pain and enabled the women workers to continue with their work.

The adhesive plasters were kept on day and night, and were removed every few days until the fingers had healed. No satisfactory method could be devised to prevent the injury to the fingers.

One of the workers, however, accidentally splashed her fingers with a solution of hydrogen peroxide. She noticed that during the next few days the peroxide had been splashed did not get sore. She therefore put the peroxide on all of her fingertips, and re-applied it at night and during the dinner hour each day for about a week. The fingers were so much better that during the second week she used the peroxide only at night, and then found that the soreness disappeared and did not recur.

Wide Usage

Doctor Bates therefore used the treatment for a large number of women who were instructed to dip each fingertip into the peroxide solution three times a day. It was found that considerable protection of the fingers was afforded from this treatment.

It is not just clear why the peroxide helps to prevent the sore fingertips. It is thought that perhaps the solution may harden the skin tissues and increase the resistance of the skin to the rubbing. No ill effects have been noted from its use.

Of course, this method of treatment requires further study before a definite statement can be made concerning its exact benefits. However, it would seem to be worth trying.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Tuberculosis is a common cause, but the other symptoms of this disease are more pronounced, such as loss of weight, coughing and fever. ### CHAPTER THIRTY-SIX

THERE WAS a big coil of rope lying on a chest just inside the door in company with old fishing tackle and some moth-eaten cushions. MacWhirter laid a hand on her arm and impelled Mary gently forward until they stood looking down on the rope. He touched it and said:

"I'd like you to charge your memory with this, Miss Aldin. You'll notice that everything around about is covered with dust. There's no dust on this rope. Just feel it."

She said: "It feels slightly damp," in a surprised tone. "Just so."

He turned to go out again. "But the rope? I thought you wanted it?" said Mary in surprise. MacWhirter smiled.

"I just wanted to know it was there. That's all. Perhaps you wouldn't mind looking this door, Miss Aldin—and taking the key out. Yes, I'd be obliged if you'd hand the key to Superintendent Battle or Inspector Leach. It would be best in their keeping."

As they went downstairs, Mary made an effort to rally herself. She protested as they reached the main hall:

"But really, I don't understand." MacWhirter said firmly: "There's no need for you to understand." He took her hand and shook it heartily. "I'm very much obliged to you for your co-operation."

Whereupon he went straight out of the front door. Mary wondered if she had been dreaming! Neville and Thomas came in presently and the car arrived back shortly afterwards and Mary Aldin found herself envying Kay and Ted for being able to look quite cheerful. They were laughing and joking together. After all, why not? she thought. Camilla Trevelian had been nothing to Kay. All this tragic business was very hard on a bright young creature.

They had just finished lunch when the police came. There was something scared in Hurstall's voice as he announced that Superintendent Battle and Inspector Leach were in the drawing room. Superintendent Battle's face was quite genial as he greeted them.

"Hope I haven't disturbed you all," he said apologetically. "But there are one or two things I'd like to know about. This glove, for instance, who does it belong to?"

He held it over, a small yellow chamois leather glove. "Is it yours, Mrs. Strange?"

She shook her head. "No—no, it isn't mine."

"Miss Aldin?"

"I don't think so. I have none of that color."

"May I see?" Kay held out her hand. "No."

"Perhaps you'd just slip it on." Kay tried, but the glove was too small.

"Miss Aldin?"

Mary tried in her turn. "It's too small for you also," said Battle. He turned back to Audrey.

"I think you'll find it fits you all right. Your hand is smaller than either of the other ladies."

Audrey took it from him and slipped it on over her right hand. Neville Strange said sharply: "She's already told you, Battle, that it isn't her glove."

"Ah, well," said Battle, "perhaps she made a mistake. Or forgot."

Audrey said: "It may be mine—gloves are so alike, aren't they?"

Battle said: "At any rate, it was found outside your window, Mrs. Strange, pushed down into the ivy—with its fellow."

There was a pause. Audrey opened her mouth to speak, then closed it up again. Her eyes fell before the superintendent's steady gaze.

Neville sprang forward. "Look here, Superintendent—" "Perhaps we might have a word with you, Mr. Strange, privately," Battle said gravely.

"Certainly, Superintendent. Come into the library."

He led the way and the two police officers followed him. As soon as the door had closed Neville said sharply:

"What's this ridiculous story about gloves outside my wife's window?"

Battle said quietly: "Mr. Strange, we've found some very curious things in this house."

Neville frowned. "Curious? What do you mean by curious?"

"I'll show you."

In obedience to a nod, Leach left the room and came back holding a very strange implement.

Battle said: "This consists, as you see, sir, of a steel ball taken from a Victorian fender—a heavy steel ball. Then the head has been sawed off a tennis racket and the ball has been screwed into the handle of the racket."

He paused. "I think there can be no doubt that this it was used to kill Lady Trevelian."

"Horrible!" said Neville with a shudder. "But where did you find this—this nightmare?"

"The ball had been cleaned and put back on the fender. The murderer had, however, neglected to clean the screw. We found a trace of blood on that. In the same way the handle and head of the racket were joined together again by means of adhesive surgical plaster."

It was then thrown carelessly back into a cupboard under the stairs, where it would probably have remained quite unnoticed amongst so many others if we hadn't happened to be looking for something of that kind."

"Smart of you, Superintendent."

"Just a matter of routine."

"No fingerprints, I suppose?"

"That racket, which belongs by its weight, I should say, to Mrs. Kay Strange, has been handled by her and also by you, and both your prints are on it. But it also shows unmistakable signs that someone wearing gloves handled it after you two did. There was just one other fingerprint—left this time in inadvertence, I think. That was on the surgical strapping that had been applied to bind the racket together."

"What are you suggesting?" repeated Neville.

Battle leaned forward. "I'm suggesting that—on some occasion Mrs. Audrey Strange wore that coat. It's the only reasonable way the hair and the powder could get where it did. Then you've seen that glove I produced just now? It's her glove all right! That was the right hand, here—the left—"

He drew it out of his pocket and put it down on the table. It was crumpled and stained with rusty brown patches.

SHIFTING THE LEAD

THERE ARE countless occasions on which it is better for the defense if one member of the pair has the lead at a certain stage than if his partner has it. Every once in a while a player must throw away a trick-winning card in order to enable his partner, with a lower one, to capture a certain trick. But it is not always easy for the man with the larger card to know that. His partner can sometimes clarify his duty by giving a high-low signal in that suit, and thus possibly prevent the side getting caught in a lead-throwing end-play by the declarer.

South made a brave play for that contract, but skillful teamwork by the defenders thwarted him. West opened the spade Q to the A and, for want of a good return, East sent back the 3 to the K. South ruffed the spade 8 with the heart 2, then led the heart 4, which East took with the A. In again, East got out of his hand with the heart 8 to the 10. To protect himself against a possible losing diamond finesse, South built up a nice end-play. He took the club A and K and then led the club 5 from the dummy.

The idea was that, if East had to win this with the Q, he would have to return a diamond into the dummy's A-Q or else a black card, which could be ruffed in the dummy while the diamond 2 was discarded from the South hand. That would have made the contract.

But East didn't win the third club. West saw the danger arising, so when South played the club A, he put on the high 9. Then on the club K he played the 3. That was such an emphatic high-low signal that East couldn't miss it. So he played his own club Q on the K. Then, when the club 7 was led from the dummy, West was able to win it with the J. He then led a diamond, and South had no way to avoid losing a trick in the suit. The difference between setting the contract depended on whether West or East had the lead on the ninth trick, and that problem was neatly cared for by West's high-low signal, combined with East's perception.

STREET CARS

MAYOR La Guardia of New York announces with pride that by the end of next year the metropolis will be free from street cars. Hundreds of smaller cities all over the country will rise up immediately to tell the world that they have been freed from such nuisances for years. But it is the nature of big cities to fall behind in modern progress.

This statement is not meant as a joke. Big cities are like elephants and camels, awkward in their operations, hard to turn around, and slow to get ideas. Small cities can be much more mobile in their mental and physical operations—if their citizens have ambition and enterprise.

Maybe the Atomic Bomb one of these days will be clearing our Panama Canal to sea level.

DISHWASHING REMAINS

ENTIRE meals, frozen, ready to be popped into the oven, thence moved directly to the dinner table, long promised to housewives, are about to be a reality according to national advertisements. Individually packed frozen foods produced commercially and in the family freezing locker have been so successful that the whole-frozen meal will be taken on faith by the housewife though she is still wondering how this is to be managed. It all sounds to her like an excellent short cut in kitchen techniques.

How about getting the dishes washed by some equally effective magic? Electric dishwashers help a lot, but they have limitations. Paper dishes are useful, too, but have never proved entirely satisfactory. Cannot some one soon invent a plastic ware which will be attractive, non-absorbent, non-leaking and inexpensive enough to be thrown away?

SENSELESS STRIKES

MILLIONS of Americans doubtless got a good laugh when the National Labor-Management conference, on reaching Washington, found itself tied up in a strike that halted all means of transportation except personal vehicles. But viewed as a background of the national picture, there was really nothing funny about it. Here was an essential process of modern, civilized life stalled and helpless, because an organized group of citizens chose to turn this public utility into a weapon of coercion for private purposes. Viewed from almost any viewpoint, it doesn't make sense.

There is talk now of a new wave of home-building, and long may it wave.

"Perhaps you'd just slip it on." Kay tried, but the glove was too small.

"Miss Aldin?"

Mary tried in her turn. "It's too small for you also," said Battle. He turned back to Audrey.

"I think you'll find it fits you all right. Your hand is smaller than either of the other ladies."

Audrey took it from him and slipped it on over her right hand.

Neville Strange said sharply: "She's already told you, Battle, that it isn't her glove."

"Ah, well," said Battle, "perhaps she made a mistake. Or forgot."

Audrey said: "It may be mine—gloves are so alike, aren't they?"

Battle said: "At any rate, it was found outside your window, Mrs. Strange, pushed down into the ivy—with its fellow."

There was a pause. Audrey opened her mouth to speak, then closed it up again. Her eyes fell before the superintendent's steady gaze.

Neville sprang forward.

"Look here, Superintendent—" "Perhaps we might have a word with you, Mr. Strange, privately," Battle said gravely.

"Certainly, Superintendent. Come into the library."

He led the way and the two police officers followed him.

As soon as the door had closed Neville said sharply: "What's this ridiculous story about gloves outside my wife's window?"

Battle said quietly: "Mr. Strange, we've found some very curious things in this house."

Neville frowned.

"Curious? What do you mean by curious?"

"I'll show you."

In obedience to a nod, Leach left the room and came back holding a very strange implement.

Battle said: "This consists, as you see, sir, of a steel ball taken from a Victorian fender—a heavy steel ball. Then the head has been sawed off a tennis racket and the handle has been screwed into the handle of the racket."

He paused. "I think there can be no doubt that this is what was used to kill Lady Treasillian."

"Horrible!" said Neville with a shudder. "But where did you find this—this nightmare?"

"The ball had been cleaned and put back on the fender. The murderer had, however, neglected to clean the screw. We found a trace of blood on that. In the same way the handle and head of the racket were joined together again by means of adhesive surgical plaster."

It was then thrown carelessly back into a cupboard under the stairs, where it would probably have remained quite unnoticed amongst so many others if we hadn't happened to be looking for something of that kind."

"Smart of you, Superintendent."

"Just a matter of routine."

"No fingerprints, I suppose?"

"That racket, which belongs by its weight, I should say, to Mrs. Kay Strange, has been handled by her and also by you, and both your prints are on it. But it also shows unmistakable signs that someone wearing gloves handled it after you two did. There was just one other fingerprint—left this time in inadvertence, I think. That was on the surgical strapping that had been applied to bind the racket together."

"What are you suggesting?"

"I'm suggesting that—on some occasion Mrs. Audrey Strange wore that coat. It's the only reasonable way the hair and the powder could get where it did. Then you've seen that glove I produced just now? It's her glove all right! That was the right hand, here's the left."

He drew it out of his pocket and put it down on the table. It was crumpled and stained with rusty brown patches.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay
"The Authority on Authorities"

SHIFTING THE LEAD
THERE are countless occasions on which it is better for the defense if one member of the pair has the lead at a certain stage than if his partner has it. Every once in a while a player must throw away a trick-winning card in order to enable his partner, with a lower one, to capture a certain trick. But it is not always easy for the man with the larger card to know that. His partner can sometimes clarify his duty by giving a high-low signal in that suit, and thus possibly prevent the side getting caught in a lead-throwing end-play by the declarer.

If It Is Your Birthday
Those whose birthday it is may have a year of equitable rewards for honest work, exceptional skill and keen initiative, in which a fine showing of such capabilities and talents may eventually win surprising rewards or favors. With due preference and emoluments from practical endeavor also may come corresponding favors and appreciation in social, domestic and sentimental relations. Sign all writings with care and guard the speech against pitfalls or dubious entanglements.

A child born on this day will possess much practical skill, with enterprise and power to put over sound propositions, but it may be lured to easy rather than honest ways by seductive and baneful alliances.

An Open Letter to Gen. J. T. McNarney | A Plea for Sending Wives Overseas, Too

By HELEN ESSARY
Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON—"Please do a very good deed," writes M. R. S., who would speak out in her own name if required. "Please do a very good deed. Print the letter enclosed. I'd send it direct if I thought it would ever be read by that route. Friends have advised me that the best way to get a public official's attention is to get a columnist to broadcast your troubles. Here I go: "General Joseph T. McNarney.

"Dear General:

"You have just been appointed by President Truman to several big jobs. You succeed Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower as commander of the United States forces in the European theater, commander-in-chief of the United States Occupation Forces in Germany and United States representative of the Allied Control Council for Germany. You must be well backgrounded or you wouldn't be given so much power.

"Therefore, I am going to ask you to use your best thinking on a matter that concerns not only the success of the American occupation but the success of thousands of American marriages.

"You've simply got to let the American troops have their families with them in Europe. Here you are, seven months after the end of the war, still saying there is no place abroad for wives of fighting men.

"Yet a major general, who should know what he is talking about, says the only thing wrong with the United States soldier in Europe is that his morale is low. Everybody, especially the man himself, knows that a man's morale is better, that he is more efficient if he has his family with him than if he is sloshing around alone. Restless. Generally fed up. "You notice, general, I said 'morale.' I'm not going to talk 'morals.' No one seems to care more. It's 'morale' I'm talking about. And it seems to me, with the criticisms coming out of Europe about the behavior of the GIs, you need to work a little on your troops' 'morale.'"

"I'm appealing to you because you are new at your job. Nobody could sell General Eisenhower the idea of letting the wives go over. This seemed odd but it was true.

"Maybe you will now give out the old excuse about no available housing for the wives and no food to feed them. Hundreds of women are going to Europe daily. I saw my husband off on a plane for Germany yesterday—this is why I am in such a state. Four women got on the plane. Two mink-coated females. I was told they were wives of UNRRA officials.

"Why shouldn't I have had the same chance for plane space as one of those women? While the war was on it was all right to have WACS abroad. Surely there is no need for keeping 4,000 of them in Europe now. It is the turn of the wives, many of whom can do office work, too.

"Here's an idea, general. If you say, but the WACS are in the Army—I say, put the wives in the Army, if it's a technicality that's keeping us home. You surely heard about those generals in the Pacific theater who got commissions for Australian WACS in the United States Army because they thought there were no American girls who would be so helpful or so pretty. That was a neat scandal in Brisbane. Remember?

"And what about the Red Cross workers who are still going over? Five thousand of them there now. Don't you think some wife could hand out hot coffee or jitterbug with a lonely GI? Wives of state department officials go with their husbands.

And wives of business men. Women workers with USO and UNO dock over.

"But what's the ban on Army and Navy wives? It couldn't be that some of you top heroes are just Big Butter and Egg Men. Wanting a fling and still have the wife to come home to. Maybe the wives won't be waiting.

"Well, general, this can't be the first time you've heard this story. Members of Congress get thousands such letters a day. Not only from wives. But from the men themselves, the younger men, in the service.

"Better arrange to send the families along to Europe."

THREE RAMS ON PRO ALL STAR FIRST ELEVEN

CHICAGO, Dec. 5—Cleveland's champion Rams, led by the unanimous selection of rookie Bob Waterfield, placed three men on the United Press' 1945 all-professional football team today while Green Bay's 1944 champions also won three berths. Philadelphia and Detroit two each and Washington one.

The selection board, made up of sports writers who covered National Football league games all season, awarded Waterfield the only unanimous spot on the annual honor team, marking the first time a freshman player has gained the honor.

Topping Green Bay's first-team trio was Don Hutson, voted an end position for the seventh consecutive season. The first-team backfield represented a complete turnover from last year although two linemen, in addition to Hutson, were placed on the honorary team for the second consecutive year, tackle Al Wistert of Philadelphia and guard Riley (Rattlesnake) Matheson of Cleveland.

THREE RAMS ON PRO ALL STAR FIRST ELEVEN

CHICAGO, Dec. 5—Cleveland's champion Rams, led by the unanimous selection of rookie Bob Waterfield, placed three men on the United Press' 1945 all-professional football team today while Green Bay's 1944 champions also won three berths. Philadelphia and Detroit took two each and Washington one.

The selection board, made up of sports writers who covered National Football league games all season, awarded Waterfield the only unanimous spot on the annual honor team, marking the first time a freshman player has gained the honor.

Topping Green Bay's first-team trio was Don Hutson, voted an end position for the seventh consecutive season. The first-team backfield represented a complete turnover from last year although two linemen, in addition to Hutson, were placed on the honor team for the second consecutive year, tackle Al Wistert of Philadelphia and guard Wistert (Rattlesnake) Matheson of Cleveland.

PHEASANT BAG SMALL IN OHIO

Hunters Are Worried About Scarcity Of Birds; Hope For Future

Ohio's army of 800,000 hunters saw another pheasant season pass into the limbo of the past as December 1 marked the close of legal shooting. For the first time in the history of ringneck shooting in Ohio the nimrods witnessed the evidence that weather, farming trends, hunting pressure, excessive numbers of predators and a combination of other complicated conditions can wreak devastation even upon the pheasant game of birds.

The pheasant has long been known to be free of diseases and cycles which bring abundance or scarcity to other species of game. He has been known to be a rugged bird, able to care for himself in trying conditions. For more than 20 years his numbers increased steadily. Everyone began to believe nothing would greatly effect this big game bird which had brought such joy and festive delights to the increasing wave of hunters who went afield each November.

A rather general carelessness became apparent. Farmers and hunters no longer took the pains to protect the hen pheasants either in the fields at hunting time or during the mowing season when the greatest numbers were maintained or killed and their nests destroyed. Then came two poor nesting seasons and there were not enough hens left to overcome this additional handicap.

This year hunters became alarmed for the first time at the scarcity of hens. Students of pheasant population trends say that if all the hens could be saved each year limited hunting could not deplete the flocks and they would be able to overcome the occasional handicaps of severe winters and poor nesting seasons. It therefore behooves everyone interested in the perpetuation of pheasant hunting in Ohio to help promote the protection of the hens.

"BEAUTIFUL OHIO" ON AIR

"Beautiful Ohio," the pleasing and ever-popular melody inspired by the beauty of Ohio will be one of the featured pieces on the "Treasure Hour of Song" program Thursday. Alfredo Antonini will conduct the program's symphony orchestra in a special rendition of the song that stirs the heart of all true sons and daughters of "Beautiful Ohio." Opera stars Licia Alenbanese and Francesco Valentino of the Metropolitan Co. will also be featured and will sing a duet, "Tonight We Love," adapted from Tchaikowsky's famous "Concerto for Piano." The orchestra will also play the now-familiar Chopin "Polonaise in A Flat," to the delight of all true lovers of fine music.

Two Ordinances Passed At Long Council Meeting

CITY OFFICIALS TO GET SALARY INCREASES SOON

Appropriation Ordinance Is Amended; Damage Claim Denied

Two ordinances were passed at a lengthy meeting of city council Tuesday night. The ordinances passed were ones raising the salaries of council members, clerk of council and the city auditor, and an ordinance amending the 1945 appropriation for city expenditures to make up for deficiencies totaling $6,815. Vote on both was unanimous.

Claim of Lawrence Davis, 366 Walnut street, for injuries and costs resulting after his wife stepped into what he termed a "washout" on Logan street, was denied. Mr. Davis claimed $350 damages incurred. Councilman Boyd Horn was the only councilman to vote for granting the damages. Councilman George Crites said that if the city paid the claim, it would go broke paying all the claims that would arise. City Solicitor Joseph Adkins said the city was not liable.

Greatest time consumption in the two-hour session was a long recess during which Mr. Davis' claim was discussed and an estimate of receipts and expenditures during 1945, preparatory to the setting of a budget for 1946, was presented for discussion by Mr. Crites. The ordinance passed amending the 1945 appropriation, which was set up in January, to include added expenditures was necessary to meet added costs of materials, salaries and bonuses. Mr. Crites said. All monies surplus in the added appropriation will be returned to the general fund. Part of the money to meet deficiencies in funds will be shifted from funds where there is a surplus.

The ordinance provided that the following amounts be added to the following funds:

- Service department fund — Salary of service director—$300; salary of serviceman for parking meters—$40.
- Sewage disposal plant fund—salaries—$275.
- Auto-street repair fund—material—$500; labor—$500.
- Fire department fund—salaries—$270; special firemen—$275.
- Police department — salaries—$930.
- Hospital fund—salary of superintendent — $175; salaries of employees—$1800; provisions—$600; medical supplies — $100; office supplies — $300; fuel and light—$100; laundry—$550.

The ordinance passing raising salaries increases the salary of councilmen from $108 to $120 per year, the salary of the clerk of council from $27 to $30 per month, and the salary of the city auditor to $1500. Council and clerk increases are effective the first of the year; that of the auditor, not until January 1, 1948.

For the first time in a long time, all members of council were present. Financial and service committee reports were given by Mr. Crites. Mr. Crites said that a meeting would be held with C. W. Snyder of the State Highway Department at 1 p. m. Wednesday for further discussion of the proposed improvement of North Court street.

Ordinance proposing licensing of coal dealers received its second reading. Councilman Ray Cook objected to a provision that licenses for trucks be bought for $1 and tags or seals be placed on the trucks. He said that city license tags were unconstitutional. Mr. Adkins said, "Unfortunately, the Supreme Court disagrees with you as the cities have the right to license dealers."

Mr. Adkins explained that the ordinance applies only to retailers, not wholesalers of coal. Matters of the poor condition of South Pickaway street and a guard rail at Sam Grant's on Pickaway were brought up by Mr. Horn and referred to the service director.

Mr. Adkins reported that Chief of Police W. F. McCrady has stated that several recent automobile accidents occurred at stop signs. The chief said that many of the signs were in very poor condition, some obliterated and bent and others torn down. Many of the signs are old and worn out it was pointed out.

Mr. Adkins said that a tidy sum would be needed to buy new stop signs, but that they would be necessary for safety and for prosecutions of persons who drove through stop signs. The matter was referred to the service committee to meet with the service director and chief of police.

Councilman Horn said that "slow down" signs had not been painted yet near schools and Mr. Adkins said the weather was too damp and wet for painting. One of the traffic lights on Court street at the school is out of repair, it was pointed out. Mayor Ben H. Gordon said that several traffic lights in the city were out of repair and that the city could save money by buying some new ones. Mr. Adkins said that Clarence Helvering, service director, had already ordered two new lights, one for use at Main and Scioto streets.

Mayor Gordon suggested that a balance of $600 to $700 left in the wartime civilian defense fund be used to purchase a new car for the police department. He said their old 1937 Pontiac was in a bad state of repair and that it would be a saving to buy a new car, with trade-in allowances now high.

Bond for the city treasurer was set at $20,000.
